

Letter to the editor: Norwich doctor deserves high praise

Norwich Bulletin

Posted Dec 17, 2007 @ 06:00 AM

Last year, I had to find a doctor because of an injury to my shoulder and I was referred to Norwich Orthopedic Group, where I met Dr. Ammar Anbari. From that moment, I knew he was going to be the perfect doctor. I have been his patient for quite a while and every time I see him he always has a welcoming smile and listens to what I say with sincere care.

On Thanksgiving Day my husband and I went to a football game at Norwich Free Academy and noticed a familiar face on the field -- Dr. Anbari. He was the team doctor and was there to care for the children.

Here is a doctor who shows so much care for his patients and still has time to spend Thanksgiving Day with a football team. He and his wife recently had twin babies of their own.

He is an awesome doctor and human being who deserves to be recognized. There should be more people in this world like him. Thank you Dr. Anbari for the love you have for the public and for your patients. You deserve this letter and much more.

MARY INGELSBY

Montville