This is in response to the letters to the editor regarding Dr. Ammar Anbari at the Norwich Orthopedic Group. Everything people said is true.

I began going to Dr. Anbari about a year ago when I had problems with my hip. Since then, I've had other problems. He always has a welcoming smile and listens to everything I have to say. He comes up with the proper treatment without any hesitation.

Even when I wasn't there to see him one day last January, when I had Bells Palsy, he came out to the desk and was very compassionate about my condition.

Norwich was very fortunate to have Dr. Anbari join the staff at the orthopedic group. He is one great doctor.
